The Class of '27 has taken an active part in the activities of the campus during its four years of organization. Its members have worked with the campus organizations, helping to further the aims and ideals of the University.

The A. S. U. H., the largest organization, is headed by a senior. The Executive Committee and the Student Council both have a strong senior representation.

Both men and women have played an active part in football, baseball, basketball, track, and other sports.

In its last year the class presented the school with a concrete bench to be known as the senior bench and to be enjoyed by the future senior students.

Meditation at Evening

They say that he who has not built his dream,
Nor woven into life the many hopes
That brilliantly in time's kaleidoscopes
Reflect their transient beauty, nor kept the theme
Which he set out to hold inviolate,
Can know but half the joy of all creating.
Great is that mind which, swiftly meditating,
Divines the way and follows to create.

But what is there of any greatness here?
Let these few small endeavors humbly be
A simple preface to a future year,
But showing in themselves some eager will
To build for joy of building; a sanctity
In gaining but a step and striving still.

The Class of 1928 has been a vital factor in the life of the university along the scholastic, athletic, and social lines. There have been representatives on the varsity teams in both the major and minor sports; and the members of the class have taken an active part in dramatics, forensics, and the student publications.

Leaders as well as common workers have been of our ranks. We have been successful these three years and we hope to continue this same standard throughout our senior year.

Despite the fact that our membership has been somewhat depleted, the Class of '29 has enjoyed a successful year. Sophomores have participated in every noteworthy activity sponsored by the student body, and their achievement is but a manifestation of the university spirit—the willingness to get in and play the game. We wish to point out the fact that members of our class have won spurs in practically every department of varsity athletics, both major and minor; while in dramatics, public speaking, Y. M. C. A. work, and Ka Palapala, they have many commendable performances to their credit.

With sincere and efficient officers, and good loyal members, we look forward to the time when we may accomplish bigger things for the Alma Mater.

The class of 1930 has successfully completed its first year of college life, and now looks forward to the second year with high expectations. We have laid our foundation well, and are resolved to carry on the good work.

In the annual Freshman-Sophomore Flag-Rush, our first big event of the year, the cooperative spirit of our class was clearly shown. Our members have taken an active part in athletics throughout the year. Playing on the football team were Walter MacFarlane, who starred as the Varsity's plunging fullback; Donald Smith, Alfred McQueen, Charles Jacobs, Bernard Farden, James Shin and Fred Lambert. On the other athletic teams we are proud to boast of Hung Dau Ching, Wakatake, Tanaka, Matsusaka, Horio, Cooke, Peterson, Luke, Auld, Kahanamoku, Christopherson, and others.

In dramatics, too, the class of 1930 was ably represented by Cornelia MacIntyre, Ruth Irwin and John Devereux, who took important roles in "The Admirable Crichton," the principal play of the year. The Freshman class was represented in the Inter-Class Debate by Ah Ho Chun, William Lydgate, and Shigeo Yoshida, who won the championship.

The executive council, consisting of Ada Forbes, Lyman Dean, William Lydgate, and the four class officers, has been untiring in its efforts to cooperate with the class in making this past year a successful one.

OTTO KLUM

Coach Otto Klum came to the University of Hawaii in 1921. Since that time he has built up an enviable record. "The Fighting Deans" have captured three consecutive territorial championships during the years '23, '24, and '25, besides winning eight out of twelve games from mainland teams. Although the varsity lost the championship this year to the Town Team it was not due to lack of constant coaching. The Deans played hard and well, but the Town Team was too much for them. With the incoming prep school stars Klum expects to put out a team next year that will be equal to the teams of '23, '24, and '25. We wish to congratulate Otto Klum on his coaching ability and predict a championship for 1928.

Line Coach Carter Galt came to the University of Hawaii in 1923. He has worked hand in hand with Otto Klum in putting the Varsity team on the map. Galt's work has consisted in building a strong line out of light material. In this he has succeeded for our line has been quick on the offensive and nearly air-tight on the defensive. The fighting spirit of the line alone has more than once carried the team to victory. With a strong combination of prep school stars entering the university next fall Galt will build up another strong line. We see no reason why the line next year will not be the big factor in the hoped-for championship.

Football

THE first football mixes of the University of Hawaii season took place on October 2, when the second team downed Kam School 12-3, and the regulars overwhelmed the 8th Field Artillery from Schofield 101-0. In the opener the Dean reserves showed a good punch and plenty of potential strength. In the second quarter, Whittle, Lemes and Jacobsen started a drive that was capped by Whittle's 14-yard run for a touchdown. The next tally was a Kam drop-kick that made the score 6-3. Toward the end of the game, Don Smith blocked a Kam punt and recovered the ball to run five yards for a touchdown and six more points. Every Dean in the game was a credit to the school. Whittle, McQueen, and Jacobs showed up exceptionally well.

This curtain-raiser with Kam was a far better football game than the main attraction, in which the first team simply smothered the artillerymen. Captain Eddie Fernandez, up to his old tricks, did just about what he pleased. Six touchdowns, twelve conversions, and a 32-yard drop-kick for a total of 51 points was his record for the day. Kaeo, shifted to fullback, contributed two touchdowns; Walters Fernandez, four; Farden and Holt each one. Holt also spilled an artilleryman behind the Army goal line for a safety. Morse at quarter did his job in fine shape. The linesmen, one and all, deserve a great deal of credit for the way they crushed their opponents, going and coming. For the first game of the season the boys showed remarkably good teamwork. The men carrying the ball could never have twinkled as they did without good interference and cooperation.

VARSITY 0—ALUMNI 2

On the 9th of October the Dean Alumni defeated the Varsity 2-0 in a practice game, and broke the University of Hawaii record of eighteen consecutive victories. The defeat was a surprise to practically everyone. The Alums admittedly had a more imposing array of talent, but it was expected that the teamwork and condition of the Deans would bring victory. In the first minute of play, after everything possible went wrong, a Dean runner was nailed behind the Varsity goal line and the Alumni scored the two points that beat us. The teamwork was far inferior to that of the preceding game, although the calibre of the opposition undoubtedly had much to do with it. The backfield couldn't get started, the line was outclassed, and the usual touchdowns just failed to materialize. Hawaii's last defeat took place in Pomona in 1923 when the Sagehens won, 14—7.

VARSAITY 101—HEALANI 0

The Alumni defeat was not in vain, for under its sting the Deans massacred the Healani 101—0 in the first Senior League contest of the year. The Varsity showed the results of hard practice by outshining their opponents in every conceivable way. The boys scored whenever they pleased, and that was quite often. Captain Eddie Fernandez was personally responsible for 54 points, while practically every other eligible Rainbow ball carrier made at least one touchdown. The interference was very effective; the linemen did their jobs thoroughly, especially the wingmen; and the boys as a whole didn't look like the same team that had played the Alums a week before.

Varsity 26—National Guard 7

In the next clash of the season the Varsity handed the National Guard a 26—7 trimming. The most gratifying feature of this game was the splendid performance of the seconds, who held the heavy Guards scoreless for two full quarters. The scoring was carried on entirely by the regulars, who made three touchdowns right off the reel, and then retired in favor of the reserves. When the first team reappeared in the last quarter the Guards had their turn. A husky militiaman grabbed the ball when a Dean back was being tackled, and ran fifty yards for a touchdown, before the boys knew what was happening. The Varsity retaliated with another six points just before the game ended. Ainoa and Wriston did a great deal to spoil the Guard offense. Captain Eddie scored no touchdowns, but contributed some nice running and passing.

VARSDITY 7—TOWN TEAM 14

This year, for the first time in the history of the Senior League, the Town Team defeated the University of Hawaii on Armistice Day and won the territorial championship. The score was 14—7 and there was a regular battle for each touchdown. The Deans were outscored, outweighed, and outplayed, but were never outfought. The boys were all-in when the game was over. A light, comparatively inexperienced Varsity gave a huge veteran Town Team the scrap of its life. Both teams threatened constantly, the Townies showing up more effectively in the pinches. The first half was scoreless. The first Town score came in the second half after Morse, kicking against the wind from the 16-yard line, got only 20 yards, and a Townie linesman grabbed the ball, eluded the defense, and sped for a touchdown. The second score came in the same quarter. Searle started the drive with a 56-yard run and Brash completed the job with two ten-yard stabs. The Townies then quit scoring for the day and devoted their energies to defense.

The Rainbows fought harder. Ainoa, who, by the way, played the stellar role on the Dean line, recovered a Maroon fumble deep in Town territory. A pass over goal, Fernandez to Morse, gave the Varsity its only touchdown.

Fighting every second, the Deans did their best to pull the game out of the fire in the last quarter. But the Town Team held. After the performance in this 60-minute battle the sobriquet of "Fighting Deans" could not help but become more firmly fixed. The Fernandez brothers, MacFarlane, Morse, and Kaeo shared the backfield work, but every man on the squad gave his best. Towse, Ainoa, Wriston, Weight, McQueen, and Farden deserve special mention for splendid line work.

Incidentally, the Town-Dean game was the first to be played in the new Honolulu Stadium.

Varsity 33—NAVY 13

Two weeks after the Armistice Day classic, the Deans defeated the Navy in an exhibition contest at the Stadium, 33-13. The two touchdowns of the Navy were gained by a nicely balanced passing attack, which the Dean backs could not stop effectively. The Rainbow offense was in good working order and was featured by the work of Whittle, Lemes, and Eddie Fernandez, who accounted collectively for five touchdowns and conversions. The work of the line and the punting of Morse sufficed to keep the ball in Navy territory most of the time. The Varsity scored in the second quarter, after advancing to the Navy one-yard line as the first quarter ended. A Navy pass tied the score right away, but not for long. Three Dean touchdowns were chalked up before the Navy got another chance. But the Navy took its opportunity when the time came, and realized six points. The Varsity offset this by another touchdown, however, which was the last score of the game.

Varsity 34—OLYMPIC CLUB 0

The game with the Olympic Club found the Deans in the best form of the season. They outplayed their heavier opponents, outlasted them and outscored them, 34-0. Both teams started their reserves. The Clubmen set a fast pace which the Rainbows duplicated, with the result that neither bunch scored in the first quarter. When the regulars came in in the next period, the Varsity pushed on to the only touchdown of the half. Apparently the Olympics tired as the game progressed, for the Dean offensive became increasingly effective. In the third quarter, Whittle, with a 12-yard run, scored his second touchdown of the game, while MacFarlane contributed six points via center. Not to be outdone, Captain Eddie, in the final period, scored two touchdowns himself. There were no particular stars in this clash. The boys worked together, fought together, and scored together. It was the first contest of the season with a mainland team, and the University of Hawaii is proud of the victory.

VARSITY 7—UNIVERSITY OF UTAH 17

The Rocky Mountain Conference at last succeeded in taking a fall out of the University of Hawaii, when, on the 18th of December, the University of Utah, Conference champions, decisively defeated our boys 17-7. The Utes won because they outweighed and outplayed the Rainbows. Their interference was ideal; their backs were heavy and elusive; their ends fast and deadly, and their defense airtight. Against the invaders, the Deans pitted clean, hard tackling; flashes of offensive brilliance; and a never-say-die fighting spirit that is always characteristic of Hawaii teams.

Utah scored in the first, second, and fourth periods. A fierce rushing attack brought touchdown number one, while a long forward pass gained the second. The Deans fared better in the last half than in the first. Although the Utes scored a field goal from the twenty-yard line, the ball was in Red and White territory much more than previously. The Deans were saved from a shutout, and rewarded for a splendid uphill fight, when Farden caught the second of two long passes and sprinted twenty yards to a touchdown.

VARSITY 2—UNIVERSITY OF SOUTH DAKOTA 9

The Christmas game against the University of South Dakota resulted in a heartbreaking 9-2 defeat. The Deans played good football against a fine team and came within an ace of getting a tie. The game had scarcely begun when Morse made a perfect punt that went out of bounds on Dakota's one-yard line. On the next play a Dakota back was thrown behind his own goal line for a safety. This gave Hawaii a lead which lasted until Kelley, star Dakota half, booted a neat field goal. Although the Deans put up a great exhibition of pluck during the first three-quarters and held each time their goal line was threatened, Kelley succeeded in repeating his performance twice. With the score 9-2 against them, the Deans unleashed a drive in the last period that all but evened honors for the afternoon. First down followed first down, until at length the ball rested on the three-yard mark and Hawaii had four chances in which to take it over. Dakota deserves a tribute for the stand it made, because the Deans came no closer than the one-yard mark. Shortly after this supreme effort, the whistle blew.

Basketball

FOR the first time in the history of the University of Hawaii a championship basketball team has been turned out. In a league where the calibre of the opposition was unusually good, the Deans won their way to the top and proved their right to the title. "Spud" Harrison, the coach, deserves the lion's share of the credit. The 1927 basketball squad, under his expert guidance, worked long, practiced faithfully, and won the championship.

The road to the top was not without its difficulties. The games were generally close, and once in a while the Deans came back with the short end of the score. For example, in the first start of the season the boys got off on the wrong foot and had to bow to the A. C. A.'s, 37 to 29. Mountcastle scored most of the Dean points in this game, but Kaaua, at guard, kept it from being a Chinese holiday.

The next start was altogether different. The Marines were disposed of by a comfortable margin, even though the Varsity committed quite a large number of fouls. This fault was remedied in time for the game with the Bachelots, however. Through the efforts of Chun, Kaaua, Hino, Smith, and Mountcastle the university gained a lead in the first half of this tilt which their opponents could not overcome. The final score was 24 to 17.

Having gained entrance into the championship series because of the results of its first three games, the University next tackled the Normal School. The game was slow, and rather loosely played. A spurt in the second half put the Varsity ahead, and they succeeded in keeping their lead to the end. The final score was 19 to 14.

In the second game with the A. C. A. the Chinese annexed 37 points as before, but the Deans took only 13. Wobbly shooting, together with frequent fouling, put the university on the small end of the score.

There was a different tale to tell, however, in the mix with Palama. In a game played largely after the second half had begun, the Deans shot their way to victory. Two extra periods were required, and needless to say, the game was as exciting as they come. The lead see-sawed, but when the final gun sounded, the score stood 32-24. Chun, Kaaua, Holt, and Mountcastle contributed baskets when they were most needed.

The Honolulu Athletic Club bowed to the University 26-19 in the next game. After securing a big lead in the first half, the boys were threatened by a spurt and just managed to come out ahead. The Dean guarding was exceptionally good, and the offensive, which had been improving all season, was noticeably effective.

In the final game of the season the Varsity met the A. C. A.'s again. The Chinese had handed our bunch two defeats, so the boys decided that it was their turn. The Deans won, but not before the tightest, fastest, scrappiest, most exciting game of the season had been played. In the first half the lead alternated frequently. Toward the last of the second half the A. C. A.'s tied the score, and just before the gun went off Dease made the basket that won the game and gave the University the championship. Although Whittle, Shin, Holt, and Mountcastle played brilliantly, it was really the teamwork of the whole squad which brought the victory.

Baseball

FOR the third consecutive year the Varsity baseball team has entered the Honolulu Commercial League which is composed of the various commercial houses in the city.

On January 20th Coach Klum called a meeting of the baseball candidates. Some 24, including the majority of last year's, were present. After a short talk by Klum on inside baseball, the meeting was given over to the electing of team captain. "Mutt" Nishihara, our star rightfielder, was elected.

Coach Klum's biggest job was to find capable players to fill the shoes of Bill Wise, "Pump" Searle, and "Mattie" Matsumo.

On January 29th the Varsity team and the Honolulu Iron Works team officially opened the Commercial League series at the Moiliili field.

HONOLULU IRON WORKS 4, U. OF H. 3

Varsity lost a thrilling, hard-fought contest to the ironmongers. The ironmen scored their 4 runs in the first inning when they collected five consecutive hits. Horio pitched excellent ball and allowed only one hit the rest of the afternoon. Varsity scored one in the first and two in the ninth after a gallant effort. Gerdes was the hitting star of the day, collecting three hits.

MUTUAL TELEPHONE 7, U. OF H. 3

The Varsity nine met their second defeat at the hands of the telephone ball-tossers. Although the Deans outbatted the Mutuals, eight hits to six, they also aided their opponents by misplays in the field. Coach Klum used three hurlers, Tashima, Horio, and Ishii, but they were all wild. Izumi, first sacker, handled nine chances without a miscue. Gerdes had another good day at bat, garnering a double and a single.

U. OF H. 7, AMERICAN CAN CO. 2

The Varsity scored their first victory of the season when they defeated the canners. The Varsity again outthit their opponents, eight hits to six. Lefty Ishii, our half-pint pitcher, twirled a nifty game, and was backed by brilliant support, his teammates turning in three double plays. Al Lemes was the hitting star of the day, collecting a double and two singles. Gerdes continued his hitting streak with a triple and a single.

U. OF H. 3, LIBERTY HOUSE 2

The Varsity scored their second victory over the fast Fort streeters. Horio started on the mound but gave in to Ishii in the seventh with the bases loaded and a left-hand hitter up. The Liberty House managed to score two runs in this inning but were held helpless the remainder of the game. The Varsity knotted their score in their half of the seventh. Lefty Ishii brought in the winning tally in the ninth with a single over second.

STANDARD OIL 14, U. OF H. 3

The rainbow nine lost their fifth game to the league-leading Standard Oilers. The oilers fed upon the offerings of Ishii and Horio and aided by the misplays of the collegians gave the Varsity their third defeat of the season. Gerdes continued his batting stride, collecting three infield hits. "Pake" Duke collected his first of the season.

HAWAIIAN PINES 7, U. OF H. 0

The inability of the Rainbowites to connect with the pellet, caused their fourth defeat of the season at the hands of the Hawaiian Pine's players. Lefty Ishii was replaced in the fourth by Horio, who allowed only one run. Tashima, pinch-hitter in the ninth, made the longest hit of the day, a nifty three-bagger.

As this goes to press there remain four more games to be played. The season from a standpoint of victories has not been a success, but from the standpoint of mechanical improvements the boys have progressed far. Competing as we are with players who have followed this sport for years, the boys have done well and give every assurance of doing better next year.

Track

NEXT to basketball, track was the most successful sport this year for the university. Under the skillful coaching of "Spud" Harrison, Green and White men made creditable showings in both the Rainbow Relays and the A. A. U. meet. The team was considerably handicapped. Billy Mountcastle was considerably handicapped in both meets because of a strained tendon, and Farden was out of commission in the A. A. U. But in spite of these misfortunes the team placed second in both the Rainbow Relays and the A. A. U. meet. The university has every reason to be proud of its 1927 tracksters.

Soccer

Soccer was initiated this year at the university. The team, which was more or less of an experiment, put up a plucky fight against more experienced men, winning three games, tying two, and losing one. Under the captaincy of Das, and the excellent coaching of Dwight Rugh, the university's first soccer team made an entirely creditable showing.

The university won a victory over the Marines by a 3-0 score in the first game of the season. The second was a 1-1 draw with the Rangers, notable for the fact that it marked the first time the Rangers had ever been scored on. The first defeat for the varsity came from the Honolulu Iron Works by a 1 to 0 score. The varsity triumphed over the Celtics in the next game, 2 to 0. Then, in a fast match, the Green and Whites won a 3 to 0 victory over the Koreans. The sixth game, with Palama, ended in a scoreless tie. With this, the league games for the university were concluded, and we turned to play off the cup ties.

The university dropped its hooks from the cup ties series by losing to the Rangers 2 to 1 in the first game.

The following received their letters: Morrison, Morse, Kaeo, Cushine, St. Sure, J. Kai, M. Dease, Black, L. Giacometti (manager), Christophersen, Das (captain), Ferreiro, and Donald Dease.

Standing—Black, Olmstead, Cushnie, Lydgate, M. Dease, Oda.
Kneeling—Shitamae, Crawford, Kaneda.
Sitting—Inouye, Kawahara, D. Dease.

Tennis

TENNIS at the university is fast developing into a very important sport. There is an abundance of talent on hand, and judging by the way the courts are kept crowded there is plenty more talent developing.

When the Deans joined the Oahu Tennis League a large stride forward was made. Formerly the yearly tennis activities consisted of a tournament or two and a few matches with teams of other organizations. This year by entering the league the university has been able to give to the tennis team excellent experience and has also increased its tennis prestige. The Oahu Tennis League consists of fourteen tennis clubs among which are numbered the best players of the islands. The "round robin" method of play has been followed, wherein each club plays every other club once. Two singles three doubles constitute the representation of each club. The scoring is by total number of games won, not club matches.

Although the Deans were not members of the league last year, they made a great showing. At the present writing the Deans rate third in the league. There is every reason to believe that they will finish at least third, possibly second, but probably not first.

The tennis team is strong in every position. Kawahara and Kaneda play the singles. The hard, fast, accurate games of the former and the hard driving heady game of the latter, leave little to be wished for. These men have to play the cream of the island and have already done themselves proud. Kawahara, at No. 1, has played better than ever and Kaneda has won every match except one that he has played. Donald and Maitland Dease, the junior doubles champions of the islands, fill the difficult No. 1 doubles post. Through their splendid teamwork they have received only one setback out of seven matches, and that at the hands of the formidable Schofield men. Incidentally, neither one is a slouch as a singles player. Not far behind the Deases come Black and Cushnie, the No. 2 team. In six matches this combination has dropped but one. There has been plenty of competition for the No. 3 position. Olmstead and Shitamae, who alternated with Crawford and Inouye at the beginning of the season, seem to have cinched the position. This pair has developed with each match and is in good shape.

From the opening of the league the Deans have defeated everyone they have met. In the first regular match of the season the Deans journeyed to Waialua and captured four out of the matches played. The lone Waialua score came when Ecklund defeated Kawahara. Ecklund has been island champion several years, so Kawahara's defeat was not unlooked for.

Ewa was taken on next and the Deans lost two matches out of five. Black and Cushnie, the regular No. 2 team, did not turn out, and their substitutes were taken into camp. With the exception of Kawahara, who lost a tight battle to Kau, the others came out in fine shape.

The following week-end the team defeated the Nuuanu Y. M. C. A., three matches to two. This time Inouye and Crawford, playing No. 3, slipped up, and so did Kaneda who lost to Sato. The rest of the team came up to expectations.

Soon afterwards the Deans handed the formidable Moana Club a 4 to 1 defeat. Kawahara, who dropped a three set match to Akana, was not the only Dean to have a bad morning, as Black and Cushnie just nosed out their opponents.

The weak Honolulu Sector team was the next victim of the Deans who won four matches to one. Crawford and Inouye lost their match and Black and Cushnie just nosed out their opponents.

Manoa Club fell next by the tally of 4 to 1. All the Deans won except the No. 3 doubles, which lost to the very steady opponents. Kawahara won easily, but the others encountered tough opposition and came out ahead only after they had given all they had.

The university has a right to be proud of the victory over Schofield. Kawahara and Kaneda defeated their opponents in straight sets. The other matches were all three set affairs in which the Deases dropped their only match of the season and Black and Cushnie received their first setback of the season. Olmstead and Shitamae made an uphill fight and eventually won.

As this goes to press the season is half over, but one can safely predict a successful close for the season.

The university championship singles tournament is not yet finished, but Kawahara, Kaneda, and the two Deases are in the semi-finals. The winner gets the Wilson cup and the man who can emerge victorious from that quartet certainly deserves it.

Girls' Athletics

THIS year Miss May Gay, girls' physical education instructor, centered her sport activities under two main heads, namely, basketball and tennis. Basketball started immediately after hockey and volleyball, which were preliminaries. Quite a number of girls turned out and Miss Gay was pleased with the results. Although the girls did not finish the season, they showed good teamwork and excellent sportsmanship. The majority of girls were freshmen; in fact, Miss Margaret Pratt, Miss Blanche Bogart, Miss Margaret Wong, and Miss Venus Gay were the only girls from other classes. Miss Pratt, Miss Wong, and Miss Gay were the old veterans of last year's basketball team. Miss Pratt, who plays the position of "tap center" 'did remarkably well this year. Miss Venus Gay played her usual excellent game at forward, proving again this year as she did last her accuracy at basketball shooting. She was captain this year.

Miss Wong played a good game at guard. The freshmen, Misses Helene Bartels, Virginia Davis, Regina Christoffersen, Janet Haughs, Alice Nieman, Isabel Hockley, Anne Moore, Winifred Webster, Gladys Bartlett, Martha Wright, Clarissa Coney, and Alice Lyser showed up well. Miss Gay was as proud of them as she was of the girls from the upper classes.

The girls played three games this year; two with the Palama girls, and one with the Normal School. The university lost all three games but Miss Gay feels that in spite of this fact we had a successful year, because some good material is now in shape for next year.

The preliminary sports, hockey and volleyball, were popular. The girls enjoyed hockey very much, and Miss Gay intends to make a regular sport of it. In volleyball, although the girls worked hard, they lost two games to the Normal School, 15-2, 15-6.

Tennis was the other main sport this year. E. O. Hall & Son offered a trophy for a tournament in girls' tennis, both singles and doubles. Miss Gay arranged for the tournament and the girls started practice early. The singles match took place in March, and there was keen competition. Finally the match boiled down in the semi-finals to the Misses Regina Christoffersen, Helene Bartels, Blanche Bogart, and Venus Gay. Miss Bartels and Miss Christoffersen won their respective matches, and were entered in the finals. The first set went to Miss Bartels, 6-1, and then the match was postponed until the next day. When it was continued Miss Christoffersen staged a brilliant comeback, and took the next two sets, 6-3, 6-4, thereby winning the trophy. Both girls have been in the tennis world for quite some time, and are very well known in the island tournaments. Miss Christoffersen, who plays a skillful game, is the holder of several other handsome trophies.

Gay, Bogart, Bartels, Christoffersen.

The University of Hawaii Reserve Officers Training Corps

The members of the R. O. T. C. attending the six weeks training camps have built up an enviable list of records. These records have been made even against stiff competition from other R. O. T. C. units. Anyone glancing over the activities of the Hawaii units at any of the training camps must be immediately impressed by this fact. These were made possible by the diligent and untiring efforts of Lieut.-Col. Adna G. Clarke and his able assistants. The university rifle teams have also captured many matches with various army and visiting ships' teams.

Hawaii's Delegation To Asilomar

While the Dean eleven was battling against odds on the local gridiron against the more powerful "Utes," five other Hawaii men were likewise battling against odds on the not-too-peaceful Pacific Ocean. The latter were headed for Asilomar, the annual "Y" rendezvous for college men on the Pacific coast.

For the fifth time since 1922, Hawaii was represented at the Asilomar conference. For the first time, Hawaii sent a genuine Hawaiian delegate in the person of Moses Inaina, who acquired the appellation, "the Al Jolson of the West." Hawaii's delegates enjoyed the privilege of spending part of the Christmas vacation with about two hundred and fifty other college men from about thirty colleges and universities of the South Pacific region. Good fellowship, mixed freely with serious thinking, made the conference a well-balanced one. The presence of such men as Russel Callow, rowing coach of the University of Washington, Dean Graham, Stitt Wilson, and David Starr Jordan, helped to make the conference worth while.

Ka Leo

Reportorial staff: J. Stowell Wright, Alfred Aki, Harry Shiramizu, Harry Takata, Miss Ethel E. Widdifield, Miss Mary Gertrude Luebberman, Miss Marguerite Louis, Mrs. Jessie S. Peet.

Ka Leo o Hawaii, weekly publication of the university, was used as a laboratory for the students in the class in journalism. Rather high standards were maintained throughout the year, in both the editorial and news policies of the weekly, and the sheet was rated with the best of mainland collegiate papers of its size. Campus news was gathered and written up in creditable style, and each week's issue was eagerly awaited and read by the student-body. In its editorial columns, the paper initiated and brought to fruit through continued agitation such campus projects as a university chorus and the much-needed auditorium, besides supporting all student movements and enterprise. The weekly paper did much to make up for the lack of a weekly assembly hour, and was instrumental in maintaining a high university spirit throughout the year.

FORENSICS at the university had two features this year. "The Women's Forensic Society" was formed, with Marguerite Louis as president; and inter-class debates, with a trophy at stake, were initiated for the first time.

Early in the year a team composed of Walter Mihata, David Yap, and Quan Lun Ching, of the class in argumentation, representing the negative of the question: "Resolved, that Sheriff Trask was justified in using the blacksnake whip to disperse gangsters in Honolulu," defeated Edwin K. Fernandez, Henry Tom, and Mitsu Kido of the public speaking class.

Later Margaret Black, Evelyn Anderson, and Alla F. Neely of the public speaking class, upholding the negative of the question: "Resolved, that Saturday classes should be abolished at the University of Hawaii," defeated Leonie Schwal lie, Marguerite Louis, and Margaret Searby of the argumentation class. Although it lost the decision, the team representing the argumentation class gained most in points.

During the first semester the seed from which the "Women's Forensic Society" sprang was planted when Margaret Black, Marguerite Louis, Yuk Gan Ung, Lena Comstock, Juanita Lemmon, and Evelyn Anderson organized a group to meet informally and hold debates on various subjects. In the second semester the organization of this group was perfected, and a constitution and name adopted.

The preliminaries for the inter-class debates were held in February on the question: "Resolved, that the Territory of Hawaii should provide for a territorial theatre similar to the municipal theatres of Germany and the government theatre in Russia."

The junior team, composed of Walter Mihata, captain, Mitsu Kido, and Richard Kaneko defeated the seniors, Shunzo Sakamaki, Margaret Black, and Harry Takata by a unanimous decision in the first of the inter-class debate series held Monday, March 14. The question was: "Resolved, that the Territorial Normal School should be amalgamated with the University of Hawaii." The juniors upheld the affirmative.

The freshmen team, composed of William Lydgate, captain, Shigeo Yoshida, and Ah Ho Chun, defeated the sophomores, Francis Sato, Kam Tai Lee, and Masao Yamada on Tuesday, March 15, maintaining the negative of the question: "Resolved, that this house is in favor of a Pacific League of Nations." The decision was unanimous.

The final debate for the championship was between the freshmen and junior teams, both of which had won unanimous decisions previously. Both teams put considerable effort into the composition of their arguments on the question: "Resolved, that the Territory of Hawaii should adopt the single-house system for its legislature." After an evenly matched debate marked by close competition and sharp-witted rebuttals, the freshmen team was awarded a unanimous decision. The names of the winning freshmen were engraved on a silver plaque offered as a perpetual trophy by Hawaii Union, men's debate organization.

As "Ka Palapala" goes to press, the Berndt contest in extemporaneous public speaking in which a $100 prize is offered annually by Emil A. Berndt, is in progress. Quan Lun Ching, K. Hayakawa, Mitsu Kido, Kam Tai Lee, David M. Makaoi, Walter Mihata, Alla Neely, and Stowell Wright are entered in the finals which are scheduled to be held May 6 at Mission Memorial Hall.

During the first days of school, Shunzo Sakamaki was a member of a team which upheld the negative of the question: "Resolved, that democracy has failed," against an Australian team in a debate at Mission Memorial Hall, sponsored by the Pan-Pacific Union.

The Adelphai Club, whose aim is to promote good fellowship among the women students of the university, to cooperate with the rest of the student body for the general betterment of the university, and to promote social activities, consists of eighty per cent of the women students of the University.

The club again sponsored the "Big Sister" movement this year and inaugurated supper meetings which will perhaps be made a permanent custom.

Social activities this year included a tea for the Women's Faculty Club, a Hallowe'en party held at Schofield, a Christmas party, a three-day camp, a beach party, and a chop-sui-theatre party.

Theta Alpha Phi is a dramatic fraternity and the only Greek letter society on the campus.

During the past year Hawaii Alpha has held monthly meetings with a planned program and purpose for each. One of the most interesting was held in January at which Mr. William Lewers gave a talk on "Make-Up" as he knows it from his professional work on the stage. Members of Theta Alpha Phi helped the Dramatic Club with its production of "The Admirable Crichton," besides assisting with the dramatic nights given throughout the year.

The annual tennis singles tournament to decide the tennis singles champion of the University of Hawaii for the school year 1926-27 was held in March. Fifteen of the best racqueteers in the university were entered and keen competition and good tennis were features of the tournament. A handsome silver cup was offered by William Wilson, former Dean tennis singles champion, as an award to the winner.

In respect to inter-club tournaments, the Hawaii tennis team is playing in great form. The entrance of the university team into the Hawaii Tennis League is taken to mean that the Deans are seriously contending for the club championship.

The Student Christian Association is a movement among students and faculty men for promoting religious education and leadership among students. Its purpose is carried out through the fellowship of various campus activities, new student help, employment and social recreation. Community service, such as leaderships in boys' clubs, church groups and deputations, is also another aim of the University "Y." Interviews, Bible study, meetings and conferences make up its program of religious education.

Ka Pueo was reorganized at the beginning of the second semester and a large number of new members were taken into the club. The new members were entertained at a tea given at the home of Alice Denison on February 19.

Club members took an active part in the work of the Social Service Department of the Queen's Hospital, some girls going down two days a week to distribute library books to patients. The regular meetings held on the first and third Mondays of each month have been very popular, and in addition there were many jolly gathering, among them several theatre parties, one evening at the skating rink, and a week-end house-party. For its annual spring party Ka Pueo entertained at a dinner-dance which event closed a very successful year.

Hawaii Quill is the only general literary society on the campus. Monthly meetings are held at the homes of the different members. At these gatherings one-act plays were read and presented, and modern playwrights, like Ibsen and Shaw, discussed. Literary spelling matches have proved popular. The meetings have also been designed to unite the members socially.

The largest undertaking in the history of this literary society was the production of "As You Like It," in cooperation with the Aggie Club in its May-Day program. The cast was composed mainly of Hawaii Quill members, directed by the president with the assistance of members of the faculty.

The Commerce Club of the University of Hawaii was organized October 28, 1925. Its purpose is to promote fellowship among the members, to provide training for intelligent discussion of business problems, to promote closer relationship between business men and the members of this organization and to encourage higher business standards.

The club meets on the second Monday of the month and usually some distinguished speaker addresses it. The last meeting of the year is put aside for a Commerce Club picnic, which is held out of town. The following are some of the prominent men who have addressed the club during the past year: H. B. Kemp, Mr. John T. Barret, Dr. Hardman Kinnear, Rev. N. Dizon, Hon. Shukei Kuwashima.

The club nominated a co-ed of the university to represent it as Miss Commerce in the popularity contest held in conjunction with the sale of tickets for the semester play. Miss Commerce was elected by an overwhelming majority, through the efforts of the members of the club and their friends.

The university unit of the Chinese Students' Alliance, starting with a few members when organized in 1921, has grown steadily until it has now a membership of some sixty students.

The unit has been active in promoting fellowship among its members and in cooperating with other students in campus affairs. It furnished an unique stunt at one of the large football rallies, and also sponsored a tennis tournament.

Among its social activities are included an entertainment for the Freshman, a banquet in honor of the parents, and a picnic at Wailupe.

"Chinese Love," a drama, was presented for the C. S. A. building fund.

Last year the club sponsored the first Campus Day with the aid of the faculty and students. The success achieved by the club last year was so favorable that plans are again being considered for a second Campus Day.

The horse-shoe-pitching tournament, the chess, and the checkers tournaments were sponsored by the club as usual. Great interest has been shown by the student body in these minor tournaments every year.

The Hawaii Union completed its fourth year of existence with the close of the 1926-1927 school year. Organized in 1924 by Dr. A. L. Andrews, and affiliated with the well-known Oxford Union, the Hawaii Union has played an active part in promoting forensic activities at the university.

Union members have been active in nearly every debate or public-speaking contest with which the university has had anything to do. The members of the University of Hawaii team that defeated the Oxford debaters were all from Hawaii Union. The Berndt Oratorical Contests always find some members of the Union among those who win final honors.

The inter-class debates staged at the university this year were outgrowths of Hawaii Union's activities. These debates will be a yearly occurrence in the future, and it is expected that more interest will be created in forensics at the university by means of these contests.

The greater part of the activity of the Union, however, is within the organization itself. Here members meet in friendly discussion, talking over the various phases of different local and world problems.

Dr. A. L. Andrews is honorary member and adviser of the organization, and Prof. J. M. Baker and Arthur G. Smith are honorary members.

The Pre-Medic Club opened its membership this year to all members of the University interested in medical work as well as to pre-medical students. With the largest membership since its organization in 1923, the club has had a most active and successful year.

Monthly meetings were held, the purpose of which was to acquaint the members with different phases of the medical profession. The club encouraged discussions of medical schools, the correct attitude toward the work, and kindred subjects. During the year prominent men, including Dr. H. Edmondson, Dr. J. W. White of the Shriners' Hospital, Dr. Richard Wrenshall of the University, and Dr. N. P. Larsen of the Queen's Hospital, addressed the club. Motion pictures of operations performed at the Shriners' Hospital were also shown.

Good fellowship among the members was promoted by various social activities including a mixer to welcome new members, a picnic, and a chop suey dinner in honor of those leaving school at the end of this year.

The Twisted Structure

By W. L.

ON the fifteenth of September, 19—, I married Miss Virginia Reed. I had been in love with her for six months. To me she was an ideal: purity, sincerity, supreme love. I respected her as I did no one else, and I knew that when I married her I would be getting the best wife any man could wish for. The only trouble was that I felt a trifle guilty in bringing one to live with me who was so much more superior in every respect. I told her that, but she laughed her rich, fascinating laugh. "No, dear," she said. "You are only afraid that your love is not true enough." She was always saying things like that. She could analyze a situation in a moment. Yes, she was my superior. In a way I feared her.

She was always giving me advice. I should do this and that. It was good advice: I will admit that. But somehow it aggravated me that she, a woman, should be giving me, a man, advice on vital questions. I was in the real estate business and negotiated many important deals. I told myself I should not talk shop with her, but somehow I couldn't help myself—she drew it out of me in a quiet sort of way. Then she would give me advice, and, knowing that it was good advice, I used it. She was perhaps a little conservative in her views, but never unreasonable. For instance, she put a stop to my having eggs every morning for breakfast because, as she said, too many eggs were bad for one. I liked eggs, and I hated to give them up; but I saw that she was right.

Otherwise, our marriage was a happy one. People said we made a handsome couple. She was tall and slender, with dark hair and large brown eyes. I am a little taller than she was—perhaps an inch or two. I am dark, too. In fact people said we looked enough like one another to be brother and sister.

On the fifteenth of February of the next year we were happy. On the sixteenth something occurred which was to play a great part in future events, and by the end of the next month the crisis had come.

It happened this way. I had a chance to buy a piece of real estate. It was situated in a growing section of the city, and I figured that if I bought it and kept it for a week I would be able to sell it at a gain of perhaps several thousand dollars. But the company wanted cash—eight thousand dollars in cash. By putting up all the money I had, by borrowing to the limit, and by mortgaging the lot I could get the seven thousand dollars. I needed another thousand.

Now I knew that Virginia had about eighteen hundred dollars in her name in one of the local banks. A thousand of that would make the required amount, and I stood the chance of doubling or trebling that by selling the lot. I asked the manager of my firm what he thought land in that section would be worth in the near future. He was confident that it would go up twenty per cent at least, and probably more. I was convinced that the gamble was worth the risk.

But I hated to ask Virginia for the money. I was afraid that she would say in her quiet way: "John, you would be taking an awful chance. I don't think you had better do it." And I knew that would end it for me. That got on my nerves

I was coming to hate her advice. I know it was foolish of me, because she always gave such good, sound advice. But that was the trouble: it was always good. God! I thought: if she would only make a mistake once!

So I forged a check. I signed her name to the line without much hesitation because I was convinced that I was justified in doing it. I felt sure that I would be making three or four thousand off the deal. So I could put back into the bank what I had taken, and she would never know the difference. Then I would tell her of my deal. I would say I had paid only four thousand dollars for the lot (she knew I had that much), and everything would be all right. I would not only have the money but also there would be the satisfaction of having put over a successful deal without her advice. That would give me courage. I could handle more affairs without her advice. I would be free in business (although as much tied down in love, and happily so).

The rest is simple. I bought the lot and waited. Two days after the transaction a fire broke out in that section of the city, and wiped out all the newly built houses in the vicinity of my lot. Its value dropped from eight thousand to about six thousand. But that was not all.

On the third day Virginia said: "John, this last letter from mother is more pathetic than ever. I must go to her. She hates the hospital and she hates Paris. I feel it my duty to go."

"Why, dear, you must go by all means," I said. "But now let's see. Is there enough money for the trip?"

"Oh, don't worry, John dear. I have eighteen hundred dollars of my own in the bank."

There was a great beating in my throat.

She wanted to leave in three days. That meant I had to get the thousand dollars I had taken, back into the bank before she was ready to draw it out. What was I to do? For an hour I was as weak and shaky as a frightened child. I began to picture the scene when she would discover that the money was not there and would go to the bank president. I knew what she would say to him and just how she would say it. In her calm voice with its deadly assurance it would be: "Mr. Ross, I had eighteen hundred dollars in my account. Now there are only eight hundred. Can you tell me anything about it?"

But I found a way out. I took a thousand dollars from the firm's treasury. I figured that the value of my lot would go up as soon as people stopped being superstitious about fires, and then I could sell it and put the money back into the treasury. Nobody would ever know what I had done.

Virginia left for Paris. The day before she got there her mother died. Virginia was there for the funeral, and there being nothing for her in Paris she hastened to return to me. In exactly three weeks she was back with me.

But, oh, the agony of those three weeks! Virginia had hardly been gone a week when I learned that the auditors were coming to look over our firm's books. On top of that the bank from which I had borrowed foreclosed the mortgage they had on the lot. So then I did not even have my land. I had to get a thousand dollars back into the firm's treasury before those auditors came.

For days I was weak and nervous and shaky. The whole thing haunted me like a terrible ghost. I lost twenty pounds. My eyes were sunken, my cheeks hollow. I had no appetite. No matter what I did I could not forget even for a moment the horrible situation I was in. I thought dollars, I ate dollars, and when I was so fortunate as to sleep fitfully for a few hours I dreamed dollars and woke up in a cold sweat. I tried to call up what little will-power I had but it was useless; the thing had complete possession of me. It had my mind in its long, thin, powerful fingers, and it was twisting and bending my thoughts into a crazy structure.

There was just one thing I had to be thankful for and that was Virginia's absence. It was bad enough to brood over my misfortune alone, but I knew that when she came back I would have to strain all my mental energy toward keeping it from her. And even then I was afraid she would draw it out of me, as easily and quickly as the sun draws out water. God! How helpless I was in her hands!

And so things went on. I brooded myself almost sick, and still I could find no way out. The president of the bank from which I had borrowed whispered a few words into the ears of the rest of the bankers in the city. They gave me a cold reception when I sought to borrow money and said they were sorry. Hypocrites! I had no land (we were living in an apartment). I had no cash. I had an embezzlement charge hanging over me which would drop on me as soon as the auditors came. The bankers would lend me nothing. Worst of all Virginia was coming home.

She came. I met her at the boat. From the moment I saw her standing in all her alluring beauty and grace on the deck I lost heart. She was fine, clean, pure; and I a weak, sniveling wretch. No wonder she had such control over me; my poor, weak will-power was like clay in her hands!

She noticed how thin I was. "Why, John dear," she said. "What have you been doing with yourself? You haven't been eating too many eggs, I hope?"

"No, dear," I said, and my voice was shaky. "I've just been lonely. I need you to take care of me. I—I—" God! I had started to say "I'm down and out!"

"Yes, dear," she said, kissing me. "I'll come home and cook you a good lunch, and then I'll never, never leave you again."

Her voice sounded far away. She was telling me of her trip and how much she had missed me. Missed me, wretch that I was! But her words meant nothing. She might just as well have talked to a stone. I had found a solution.

It was early evening. Virginia was cooking dinner downstairs. I walked into my room and closed the door. I had intended to lock it, but that seemed so unnecessary. I went to my bureau drawer and took out a pistol. As the cold metal touched my hand I became nervous. I looked into the mirror and shuddered at the gaunt face I saw. I backed away. My heart was pounding in my throat. My knees were shaky: I could hardly stand up.

"But you're doing this for her," I said to myself. "You're doing it to save her from disgrace. You can't get around those auditors and you know it." I tried to swallow but my throat was dry. "You know how pure and clean she is—."

I raised the pistol to my head. My hand was shaking like a leaf. I could not hold the barrel steady. Slowly and weakly I pressed the trigger. The door of the room opened suddenly and something tall and white appeared. At the same instant there was a blinding flash in front of my eyes, and a loud report. Everything went black.

When I regained consciousness—God! Do you know what I saw? My wife was lying dead by the door, a bullet through her heart.

I have been in this damned hole for three weeks. I eluded them for five years until it got pretty unsafe. So I came here. It's safe enough all right—they'll never get me here. But this damned snow! The marrow of my bones is frozen. And there's not a darn thing to do except sit and get colder and colder. In some ways it would be easier to go back and let them have me—the damned demons! It's cold here; it would be hot as hell for me there. . . . But in the meantime I'll have a drink.

POINSETTIAS

By JANE COMSTOCK

Great stars of burst skyrockets
In the garden of the dusk,
Against the gold plumeria
Of pungent, perfumed musk!

Warm glowing crimson sequins
Of the twilight's trailing gown
Caught in hedges of love's garden,
At the border of the town!

Cloaks of the Royal Order
Of the Men-e-hu-ne Knights,
Who danced with fairy sweethearts
In their garden of delights;
A mystic, midnight fantasy
Of ancient elfland rites!

WIND-ETCHING

By WILLIAM LYDGATE

These wild, restless nights that whip windily
Down long chasms of darkness
Quickly sting and wrathfully:
I cannot escape save through the soft pelter of rain in distress.

Even so your moods: I have always borne
The wrathful sting of your anger
And awaited the smile, quiet, forlorn,
And the soft pelter of dreams through your intricate laughter. . . .
Calm after storm.

SOUL SONG OF A SLAVE

By WILLIAM LYDGATE

Run, run from streets!
Away from the ludicrous lust!
Fling the cities of men to God
And the sure, slow poisoning dust!

Unshackle the thin, bent soul!
Leap to the chariot reins!
Go riding and shouting in triumph
Though nothing you say remains.

Leap the streams and the rocks,
Hack the branches aside!
Strike for the open fields
Where there is no hate to hide!

Ride till the day is done!
Ride till the body is sick!
Leap till the mind is reeling
And the shouting is dull and thick!

Then pause to gasp and bleed,
Weaken, and totter, and fall. . . .
Till the soul goes back to its crazy bend,
And the night comes down over all.

The Fungus Forest

By J. STOWELL WRIGHT

"It's uncanny," George observed, looking about the little clearing where we had paused to rest.

"That's putting it mildly," I replied. "It is all unreal, unnatural and repulsive, and somehow I don't feel quite safe; the darned things seem almost threatening."

"Oh, I guess they're safe enough," was the laconic reply, "but I wish we could locate those blamed guides, or that they would locate us, and I suppose that is more likely."

George Bradshaw and I had been lost for several days and in our wanderings had penetrated a hitherto unexplored part of the island of Madagascar. We had been doing ethnological work among the natives of the interior, and had become separated from our guide as we were journeying back to the coast.

We had entered this strange jungle of mammoth fungi in an effort to reach a high peak from which we hoped to be able to sight some familiar landmark. The type of vegetation by which we found ourselves surrounded was entirely new to both of us. Huge toadstool-like growths were all about us, and between their stalks and corresponding to the underbrush of the usual forest were large spongy growths, parts of which were decayed and rotting, while the rest had that mottled appearance of mushrooms. The general type of vegetation was rank, with large pulpy leaves which had the yellowish unhealthy appearance common to swamp vegetation.

"After seeing this I would be inclined to believe all the weird tales we have heard about this part of the island," my companion remarked when he had finished his scrutiny of the clearing. As he finished speaking one of the large toadstools at the far end toppled over, sending up a thick cloud of fine spores and splattering us with pieces of the soft pulp of the fungus. As the cloud of dust settled, I noticed a peculiar thing. The substance of the plant was turning brown and visibly disintegrating before us.

"I guess this was the rule rather than the exception on earth about a million years ago," I ventured, "but I don't think I shall be easily assimilated. I like the ways of progress and evolution better."

"Same here," was the low-voiced reply. For some indefinite reason we both spoke with lowered voices. There was that something about our surroundings which discouraged any unnecessary noise.

"Well, look at that, will you!" exclaimed George in amazement. "The thing has hatched a bunch of young ones. Look at them grow!"

From amidst the pile of dark brown dust and fragments had sprung a large number of small fungi which were growing larger as we watched.

"This is no place for us," I said hastily. "Suppose a few dozen more should follow the example just set, where would we be? Besides I am beginning to feel queer. That spore-dust and those pieces of slimy pulp are too much for me.

"You're right, let's go. Look out!"

The warning came just in time. I jumped back amid another cloud of spores and particles of slimy vegetable matter. I stood choking, knee-deep in a mass of debris when a strange feeling came over me. I was nauseated and dizzy, and it seemed as though the portions of my legs covered by the mass of fallen fungus were gradually decomposing, or were sprouting out in every direction. I was panic-stricken and tried to wade out of the mass of pulpy substance. On the surface there was a fine dust of spores, but underneath the mass was the consistency of jelly. I could lift my feet only with the greatest difficulty, and when I did, great masses of the gelatin-like pulp clung to them. Myriads of young fungi were beginning to spring up as I made my way clear of the stuff.

Without waiting to scrape the slime from our legs, George and I started back the way we had come. The path was strewn with the remains of fallen fungi, and practically overgrown with the new shoots. We cleared the way by knocking the growth down with our rifle-butts, but wherever the pulp came in contact with our skin it seemed to take root and start to sprout. Our trouser-legs were eaten away from wading through the fallen masses of pulp, and the fungoid growths clung to the bare skin as we stumbled along, clawing at our faces and hands in an effort to prevent the things from getting a start in our flesh. We grew steadily weaker and more nauseated, until at last we reached the edge of the fungus forest. We were completely exhausted, and our faces, arms, and legs were all blotched and mottled where the young fungi had started to take root.

We both lost consciousness and when I came to, we were in the hands of our guides. They rubbed us thoroughly with some kind of vegetable oil to kill the fungus growths, and next day we started for the coast, George and I being carried home in litters by our guides and carriers.

Betty At The Baseball Game

By THAD. R. COYKENDALL

Julia, I had the most exciting time yesterday. Positively nothing so thrilling has happened to me since I was married a year ago. I went to a baseball game. Dick is perfectly mad about baseball, but I was never very enthusiastic about outdoor sports. I remember once, long before we were married, Dick sent a special delivery invitation for me to meet him that afternoon and see the Tigers play the Cubs. I didn't meet him. He never showed up at all. I waited for him all afternoon at the Zoo!

Yesterday afternoon Dick asked me to go with him to the White Sox game. I was so excited. Just in honor of the occasion I wore my new white half hose. We had seats right next to Mrs. Pellington-Bird, and she had on the loveliest little summer hat! I simply couldn't take my eyes off it. Dick was watching one of the baseball players and he asked me if I noticed the chest-pad he had on. But I was looking at Dulcie Bird's hat, and I told Dick that it was perfectly stunning and wondered who made it. Dick said, "Sometimes the ball hits the catcher right above the belt, and that's why he wears it," and I said, "I was thinking of getting one myself"—referring of course to the hat—not the pad. Wasn't that absurd?

Suddenly there was a shout. "Oh, Dick, what did they do then? Struck a fowl? Why the horrid things. The very idea of trying to strike a poor innocent bird with that baseball." And all the men in the grandstand seemed to enjoy it. After a while they all began to shout again and Dick said that Digby had caught a fly. Wasn't that the silliest thing to do? Stop right in the middle of a game to catch a fly. I suppose it did annoy him to have it buzzing around his face. Dick was just tickled to death toward the end, he said that our White Sox were going to "white wash" the visiting team. Rather a strange way to treat your guests, I'd say! White wash them! Did you ever hear of anything so childish? Just like some prep school initiation stunt.

When the game was nearly over Dick told me that one of his friends at the top of the grandstand had given him the high sign, and I asked him what the high sign meant. He said it meant a high ball. They really did toss the ball awfully high. Dick excused himself for a minute and went up the steps to see his friend. I wanted him to take me with him but he said that his friend didn't like ladies. Wasn't that absurd?

I sat there alone trying to appear interested in the game, when all of a sudden the man with the stick hit the ball awfully hard and it flew right toward the grand stand. My, I was frightened! I looked around for Dick and there he was standing at the rear waving his hat and shouting at me at the top of his voice, "Come on home; come on home, you fool; come on home!" And right before a thousand people. I never was so insulted in my life. I staggered toward him and was about half way up the stairs when he shouted, "Go on back; go on back, you simp; go on back!" Never in all our acquaintance had Dick spoken to me like that. I staggered backwards and started down the stairs and my feet flew out from under me, and I landed in the middle of the aisle on my back. Dick yelled, "Slide, slide, slide!" and Julia, take my word for it, every man in the grandstand started to yell at me, "Slide, slide!" and I slid, slid until I bumped into a post.

Dick rushed to my assistance. Every man, woman and child in the grandstand rose to their feet and hollered and screamed till they were black in the face. Mortified? I nearly died. They threw their hats in the air and hollered and hugged each other like demons. Oh, I never was so embarrassed in my life. "Why are they hollering at me?" I asked Dick. But he was just as excited as the rest. "White Sox, the White Sox, they got a run in."

I turned right to the crowd and faced them like Joan of Arc or a lion at bay, and shouted just as loud as I could, "I don't care if they have, I guess I have on another pair underneath!"

And Dick led me home.

Doctor: "You must avoid all forms of excitement."

Red: "But, doctor, cannot I even look at them on the street?"

* * * * *

Junior: "For two cents I would knock your block off."

Frosh: "So you have turned professional."

* * * * *

Penhallow: "Do you believe in prayer?"

Eileen: "I would have if you had gone home an hour ago."

* * * * *

Jimmie: "You ain't so hot."

Dot: "Well, dearie, you are no three-alarm fire yourself."

Shunzo: "What does your daddy sing?"

Stowell: "My daddy don't sing."

Shunzo: "Gee, ain't ya got a bath tub at your house?"

Nancy: "He said last night he would love me forever and ever."

Gertrude: "Ah, Men!"

* * * * *

Cushnie: "Oo, aye, but dinna disturb yourself—it cuts ma yearly bill aboot in half."

What is a Travel Bureau?

MANY PEOPLE START on a journey without making arrangements in advance for transportation, baggage transfer, hotel reservations and the thousand and one items that travel demands. The result is much needless discomfort, annoyance and waste of precious time, as well as of money.

But how are you going to know just what you can do, when to do it, and what it will cost in dozens of different places?

Ask your Travel Bureau. That's what it is for. There you can get just the information you will need in every part of the world. Better! All things will be arranged for you in advance, if you wish.

If you are thinking of a trip it will be worth your while to come in and make use of this service.

What's beyond this studying?

"There's the rub." Some are sure what they want after they leave college; some are doubtful; most frankly "don't know."

Whatever you do, sometime you'll want a home of your own. When that time comes, Lewers & Cooke will be ready, as it has in the past 75 years, to help plan, build and finance it for you. Their valuable assistance will save you money and there is no charge connected with it.

TOUCHDOWN

Jones tucked the football under his arm with grim determination in his eye. In ten scant yards he would be across the line of safety. He twisted and dodged. Men lunged at him, but he kept on.

He was just thinking, "I have made it," when the ball slipped from his grasp. The whistle blew.

Jones stopped, sighed, set down his kiddy-car, adjusted his parcels, cursed Santa Claus, picked up the football; the whistle blew again and traffic was once more against him.
